WASHINGTON, April 3—Democratic Leader McCormack today told the House that he expects President Roosevelt to "bear down" on radical labor forces seeking to disrupt the National Defense program.

The Massachusetts members indicated that Mr. Roosevelt will make a statement to the nation and to labor in an effort to prevent further delay of the defense program.

WASHINGTON, April 3—Growing conviction among highest officials in Washington that a sinister radical plot to slow up rearmament is behind many strikes was revealed today, with the result that President Roosevelt may order drastic curative action in the near future.

Evidence that Communists and "fellow travelers" are fomenting strikes and slow downs which have paralyzed part of the program has been discussed by Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers, it was revealed on high authority.

Mr. Roosevelt, one of his important advisers said, will wait 10 days before "cracking down in the hope that mediation can remedy the situation."

Some responsible defense officials, however, took the view that while ordinary labor disputes even of great magnitude can be settled by mediation only drastic governmental action can halt Communist activity.

First public declaration that a widespread Communist plot both to instigate strikes and to foment bloodshed and riots in disputes with which they have nothing to do, was made by Rep. Dies (D), chairman of the un-American activities committee.

Proof Claimed

"Our investigators have indisputable evidence that Communists are directing a plot to prevent the nation from arming," said Dies.

The evidence of a radical conspiracy which was discussed by Mr. Roosevelt and advisers, it was stated, came from other governmental sources, presumably from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

One of the tactics being employed, an administration official said, is the "walking sit down" which is, in effect, a slow down strike. Through concerted effort, a small group in a "choke" department of an industry will slow down its work to a point where an entire plant's production is curtailed.

WASHINGTON, April 3—The United States government will demand the recall of the Italian naval attaché, Admiral Alberto Lais, on the grounds that he issued the order for the attempted sabotage of the 28 Italian ships in American waters, it was reliably reported in neutral diplomatic quarters today.

The Italian embassy refused to confirm or deny the report and the State Department would make no official comment pending Secretary of State Cordell Hull's press conference.

WASHINGTON, April 3—With diplomatic relations between the United States and Italy strained almost to the breaking point, the State Department today was busily engaged in drafting notes flatly rejecting the Italo-German demands for release of the 30 axis ships and the crews which were seized by this government over the week end.

The notes were being drafted by diplomatic and legal experts under the direction of Ray Atherton, chief of the western European division of the State Department. They were expected to be presented today.

INSULT TO UNCLE SAM PROBED BY BRITISH CHIEFS

LONDON, April 3—Britain's press was up in arms today over an "insult to America" contained in the latest edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft," which states that America now is ready to fight "to the last Englishman."

Newspapers pointed out that the statement was printed in spite of the fact that the volume was censored officially and the book has a semi-official rating.

Jane's slur appeared as a caption in the historical service aviation section beneath a photo of a Lockheed-Hudson American plane being drawn across the American-Canadian border. The caption said:

"Delivering a Lockheed-Hudson across the border... horse traction was used in the early days of the war because flying planes between the two countries was considered unneutral."

"Now that the United States has decided to support the war financially 'to the last Englishman,' preparations are being made to fly the flying fortresses direct to England."

The Daily Express said that an official inquiry has been launched.

BELGRADE, April 3—Confirming that the new Yugoslavian government has reached an agreement with Vladimir Macek, Croatian leader and vice-premier-designate, it was announced today that Macek is coming to Belgrade from Zagreb by special train this evening.

ROME, April 3—Yugoslavian "provocation" gives the Rome-Berlin axis complete liberty of action necessary for defense, Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, wrote today.

ROME, April 3—Italian students demonstrated against Yugoslavia in the streets of Rome today and a heavy cordon of troops was stationed around the Yugoslav legation.

BERLIN, April 3—The German-Yugoslav crisis is growing "gloomy," official German quarters frankly admitted today.

BELGRADE, April 3—Yugoslavia again came within a hair's breadth of war today as virtually the entire German legation staff was recalled to Berlin and everything shaped up for a Nazi "blitz" onslaught.

In sharp contrast to yesterday's comparatively hopeful outlook, the situation today was exceedingly grave.

One reliable diplomatic source said that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, after consultation with his military general staff, had definitely decided to attack in the Balkans on the grounds of Yugoslavia's alleged "aggression" against Albania.

Pact Clause Used

This means, the informant said, that Germany will formally invoke the military aid clauses of the tripartite pact signatories—namely Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary, if these comply, the whole of southeastern Europe will be aflame.

Rumors Fill Europe As Hungarian Premier Dies

LONDON, April 3—A sensational report that Premier Count Paul Teleki of Hungary committed suicide rather than face responsibility for plunging Hungary into war reached London from Budapest in a Reuter dispatch today.

(Editor's Note: A Belgrade rumor said Teleki shot himself "as the result of a demand from Hitler that Hungary must fight Yugoslavia.")

BUDAPEST, April 3—Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleki, long regarded as his country's greatest contemporary statesman, died in Budapest during the night at the age of 62, it was announced officially today.

According to authoritative sources Count Teleki succumbed to heart failure. Rumors that he committed suicide were denied.

(Editor's Note: The Exchange Telegraph (British) news agency said it was learned in London that Countess Teleki, the premier's wife, also died.)

(Reports that Count Teleki had committed suicide persisted in London but were completely without confirmation.)

(The Hungarian legation said it had received no detailed information from Budapest, but nevertheless feared that "foul play" was responsible for Teleki's death.)

Count Teleki's temporary successor as premier will be the oldest member of the cabinet, Interior Minister Francis Keresztes Fischer.

RAILROAD CREW DOES FAST JOB IN CIRCLEVILLE

One hundred and twenty Norfolk and Western railroad employees with twenty units of motorized equipment moved into the Circleville vicinity Wednesday afternoon to lay five miles of new rails on the eastbound N. & W. tracks between Dorney and Court Street. By noon Thursday they had completed the project and moved on to Duvall to lay five miles more of new rails.

Equipment used by the company included special cranes for removing old rails, electric wrenches for removing old bolts and tightening new ones and machinery for laying new rails and ties.

The workers completed laying one rail from Dorney to Circleville Wednesday and the other rail Thursday morning.

NEW YORK, April 3—John L. Lewis, key figure in the soft coal crisis, maintained a poker player's demeanor today as negotiations between operators and miners for a new wage contract continued in a deadlock.

But, it was privately forecast by a well-informed source, the 400,000 idle bituminous miners in 12 states will be back at work digging coal by next week.

If a break in the deadlock does not come by midnight tonight the federal government is expected to make a move that will force a settlement.

Police Chief William McCrady received a letter from Col. A communication from the United States War Department which was attached to the highway patrol chief's letter did not stipulate what streets would be used although it was believed by local officers that both Court and Main Streets would be designated as federal highways.

Chief McCrady, Thursday, contacted sheriff's officials and American Legion Commander James Shea for help in organizing patrols which could be stationed along street intersections on Main and Court at a moment's notice.

FAMED ENGLISH NOVELIST FEARED TO BE DROWNED

LONDON, April 3—Virginia Woolf, novelist and essayist and author of such famous works as "Orlando," "Three Guineas" and "The Waves" who has been missing since Friday, was believed today to have been drowned at Rodwell.

Her husband, Leonard Sidney Woolf, said: "Mrs. Woolf is presumed to be dead. She went for a walk last Friday, leaving a letter behind, and it is thought she has been drowned. Her body has not been recovered."

Selective Service officials chose Abner L. Griffey, Circleville, leader of the contingent of nine men which left Circleville Thursday for Fort Hayes, Columbus. The men will be given physical examinations on arrival at Fort Hayes, and those who pass will be inducted into service.

A temporary lapse in the sending out of quotas from state draft headquarters has been noted at the local draft board office, which has received no advance notices or official calls for nearly three weeks.

However, the local board continues its classification of the county's registrants and announced Thursday it would step up the mailing of questionnaires from 100 to 120 a week. To date the local board has classified more than 1,500 registrants.

Martin Keeps Big Group Of Employees From Causing Fight

DETROIT, April 3—"I am hopeful that before the day is over we will be working on a definite settlement of the Ford Dearborn strike," Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey asserted today in advance of second day meetings with UAW-CIO representatives who ordered the strike which closed the plant yesterday and brought bloody battling with injuries to 200.

Dewey talked for many hours yesterday and last night with UAW and Ford representatives. Some opinion was voiced outside the conference that the Ford men headed by Harry Mack, Dearborn sales agent, were not empowered to bind the company to any settlement agreement.

Today Dewey indicated that he believed the company representatives were working with complete authority.

"They were undoubtedly delegated to work this thing out," he said.

He said also that while the strike had its problems growing out of new demands which were injected into it, he felt certain that the concessions asked of each side would be won in the continued negotiations and a settlement basis agreed on.

Dewey began winning concessions almost as soon as he arrived in Detroit, picking up the mediation efforts at the point to which they had been brought by Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Mass Picketing Ended

The governor had persuaded the union to cut its mass picketing to a nominal gesture at the plant gates and to remove the barricades of automobiles and planks which had barred even police cars from the area.

From the company, the governor won a promise not to try to reopen the plant. Such a move, the governor felt, would lead to additional violence and yesterday's bloody battling had already brought injuries to 200 persons.

From that point on Dewey carried the concessions to the point of winning from the union an agreement to allow company payroll men, timekeepers and administrative workers to enter the plant and the company agreed to send representatives to talk peace.

Previously, the company had asserted through Harry Bennett, its personnel director, that it could not treat any peace offer while its administrative staff could not enter the plant and while strikers maintained their barricades.

That brought the situation today to the point where an armed truce was in effect.

There were no outward manifestations of trouble today except some confusion at the gates when the administrative employees arrived but they were finally admitted.

Discuss Activities
In Last Year

Approximately 100 Presbyterians gathered Wednesday evening for the annual congregational meeting of the church, a cooperative dinner at 6:30 o'clock preceding the business meeting. Mrs. Leland Pontius, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, and her corps of officers were in charge of the dinner.

Turney L. Glick was elected to the Bench of Elders for a three-year term and Mrs. G. H. Colvill and Marvin Steeley were reelected elders for the same length term. The Reverend Robert T. Kelsey, pastor of the church, served as moderator for the session which was clerked by Mr. Steeley. Franklin Crites was elected to the Bench of Deacons, Homer Quillen, Donald Watt and Melvin Kiger being reelected. They will serve for three years.

Reports of the activities of the various departments of the church were received during the meeting. Dr. F. C. Schaeffer, superintendent of the Sunday School and leader of Boy Scout Troop 205, reporting for both organizations. Others reporting were Miss Bonita Hulse, secretary of the Sunday School; George Hammel, treasurer of the Bench of Deacons; Mrs. G. D. McDowell, superintendent of the primary department; Mrs. Sterling Lamb, superintendent of the Cradle Roll; Franklin Crites, Presby-Weds; Mrs. Charles Smith, treasurer; Mrs. B. T. Hedges, secretary, Westminster Bible Class; Mrs. George Hammel, Women's Bible Class; George F. Grand-Girard, secretary of church benevolence; Mrs. Florence Steele, acting secretary of the Missionary Society; Miss Mary Lou Kachelsier, Westminster Circle; the Rev. Mr. Kelsey, read Mrs. E. S. Shane's report for the Light Bearers, Don Walker's report for the Men's Club, and his own report as pastor; Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Women's Social Club; Mrs. E. S. Stephens, the Ladies' Aid Society. Marvin Steeley reported as clerk of the session, concluding the reports of church activities.

J. O. Eagleson of the Board of Trustees conducted the meeting when the group as a corporate body discussed the church finances, and elected Dr. E. S. Shane as trustee for three years and reelected George Foresman for the same term. E. W. Lutz was elected trustee for one year to fill the unexpired term of John Ritt, deceased.

Robert Colville, treasurer of the Board of Trustees, submitted a comprehensive statement of the finances of the church and distributed copies of the report to members of the congregation.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Pontius conducted the annual meeting of the Aid Society, and as chairman of the nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year. Miss Florence Dunton is the new president; Mrs. Charles Smith, vice-president; Miss Sadie Brunner, secretary and Mrs. E. S. Stephens, treasurer.

Mrs. Pontius also announced a new plan of work for the coming year, the society to be formed into three divisions with Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, Mrs. D. Adrian

Navy Foot Trouble

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I am very glad to know that the United States Naval Reserve Corps has decided that among the specialists eligible for appointment are the chiropodists, or podiatrists. This group of specialists has long been known to me

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

as well trained and competent in their field and occupying a very special and useful place.

The Council of the American Medical Association says, "Chiropody is a department of the healing service and not a cult and it has its basis in scientific and demonstrated knowledge and satisfies a gap that general medicine has failed to fill."

The recognized college course for a podiatrist is now four years of instruction.

Feet to the Fore

The fact is that most general practitioners and most general surgeons are not sufficiently interested in small foot troubles to become skillful in their treatment. We occasionally find an orthopedic surgeon who is interested and is competent, but few cities are favored with men of this character, so that mostly patients have to depend upon the podiatrists and it is a pleasure to record the fact that their confidence is not misplaced.

There are some curious stories told about foot ailments. The felt hat industry originated from an aching corn. According to the story, a Scotchman seeking relief from a painful toenail or corn, put a wad of rabbit fur over his toe to prevent any pressure on the sore spot. The piece of fur, having served its purpose, was removed and a valuable principle was discovered. Under constant pressure, agitation and perspiration from the foot, the fur had matted together into a piece of cloth of peculiar texture and exceptional strength. There was a well developed felt hat over the top of the corn, which gave rise to the felt hat industry.

Good feet are important. A government geologist, invited to China with a six months' salary deposited to his credit and all expenses guaranteed, had to turn the proposition down because of bad feet.

The foot is more subject to infection than any other part of the body, in spite of all the achievements in the realm of bacteriology. The shoe interferes with the freedom and speed of the local blood supply. "Athlete's foot" is a name commonly applied to any of the 25 or 60 varieties of ringworm infection of the feet. All the varieties are related but they differ often in their general appearance and response to treatment.

Unless in a horizontal position, the healing time in the lower extremities is from four to ten times more than that in other parts of the body.

As indicated by the Naval Reserve Corps, special attention is given to the feet of enlisted men in any branch of the service, and a very large proportion of rejections is due to foot trouble alone. In the last war, 13 per cent of men were rejected on account of foot trouble.

In places where inspection is carried out, it is found a large number of junior high school children have some form of trouble peculiar to the foot. Many of these things, such as corns and ingrown toenails, can be prevented.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. N.:—"Will you kindly tell me what causes burning and itching and drying of the lips?"

Answer—Exposure to weather in most cases. Dry rooms, cold outdoors. Most of us don't drink enough water or have enough moisture in our rooms in the winter.

B. B.:—"My little girl sneezes continually, especially in the morning. What is the cause of this?"

Answer—Chronic obstructed nose or allergy—perhaps sensitivity to some food.

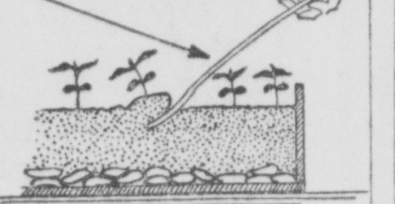

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Relief from Itching Feet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

that the soil will more readily cling to their roots.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph use an ordinary table fork to lift each seedling, taking care not to loosen the ball of earth around the roots.

Make a hole with a small pointed stick in the soil to which the seedling is transplanted. The hole should be large enough to permit inserting the plant without crowding the roots. Plant to the depth of the first or second leaves. Press the soil gently but firmly around each plant.

MORE RAIN NEEDED FOR SUFFERING FARM LAND

Pickaway County farmers were hoping the weatherman would carry out his promise Thursday of rain and warmer weather, with wheat fields and meadows badly in need of moisture.

Total rainfall for March was only .7 of an inch and the .24 inches received in April still is not sufficient to start things growing. The first quarter of 1941 is the driest on record, according to Ervin Leist, local weather observer.

Temperatures Wednesday climbed to 54 degrees and began Thursday at 35.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, April 3

THIS DAY may be notable for the introduction of some sort of new factors or intriguing situations to tax and perplex, judging by certain conflicting planetary configurations. Sudden opportunities for change, innovations or other breaking away from routine may be looked for. Elders and work seem to be concerned, and while benefits and growth may be counted upon yet there may be signs of treachery, subtlety and chaotic thinking and ill advised action.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which sudden opportunities for gainful change, new work, innovations and reforms may materialize and assure growth, enhanced possessions and financial success. But there are signs of pitfalls, snares, intrigue.

A child born on this day should be clever, ingenious, original and hard working, probably along lines of research, invention or other professional vocations. It may have a subtle mind but be easily imposed upon.

STARS SAY—

For Thursday, April 3

THIS DAY may be notable for the introduction of some sort of new factors or intriguing situations to tax and perplex, judging by certain conflicting planetary configurations. Sudden opportunities for change, innovations or other breaking away from routine may be looked for. Elders and work seem to be concerned, and while benefits and growth may be counted upon yet there may be signs of treachery, subtlety and chaotic thinking and ill advised action.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which sudden opportunities for gainful change, new work, innovations and reforms may materialize and assure growth, enhanced possessions and financial success. But there are signs of pitfalls, snares, intrigue.

A child born on this day should be clever, ingenious, original and hard working, probably along lines of research, invention or other professional vocations. It may have a subtle mind but be easily imposed upon.

Council Votes Down Midnight Closing Action

Ballot Of Five To Two Defeats Regulation Of Liquor Sellers

REID VOICES APPEAL

Stricter Action Against Intoxicants Urged By One Official

An ordinance requiring Circleville liquor establishments to close their doors at midnight and providing a heavy fine for violations was turned down by Council Wednesday night by a vote of five to two.

The ordinance, which had been forced into the ordinance committee after its second reading several weeks ago, was returned to the council floor by Ordinance Committee Chairman William Reid, who contended that there was no cause for further delay on the measure. He called for a final vote. Councilman Reid, one of the chief advocates of the ordinance, told his colleagues that in the interest of the young people of the community he felt the ordinance should be passed. "We cannot afford to measure the morals of our young people in terms of dollars and cents," he declared.

Councilman Frank Lynch spoke against the measure, contending that its passage would deny the city of the revenue it now receives from the liquor establishments. He maintained that the problem was one concerning liquor establishment patrons and not the establishments themselves and called for stricter action against intoxicants.

Councilmen Reid and Julius Helweg cast their ballots for the measure, while those voting against it were Mr. Lynch, B. H. Gordon, Clarence Helvering, J. D. Mason and George Crites.

229,963 POUNDS OF COMMODITIES GIVEN TO NEEDY

A total of 229,963 pounds of commodities was issued to Pickaway County relief families during January, February and March, according to a report of Wade Carter, relief administrator. The case load at the present time is 835 persons.

Commodities included apples, 48,261 pounds; beans, 8,036 pounds; corn meal, 17,186 pounds; eggs, 10,640 dozen; flour, 38,525 pounds; lard, 11,090 pounds; evaporated milk, 844 pounds; grapefruit juice, 577 pounds; can peaches 112 pounds; dried peaches, 5,035; potatoes, 35,824 pounds; rice, 7,050; raisins, 10,577; wheat cereal, 10,295; prunes, 1,307; fresh pears, 6,250 and grapefruit, 15,217 pounds.

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

Dear Editor:

April 3, 1941
Within the precincts of our fair city, we have a small board of men whose duty it is to say if and when the youth of our community shall serve their military training period with the U. S. government. I am not biased on the subject, there is no one in my family eligible for service and if there were I would be proud to see them do their duty. However, we must admit that through the years, we find that always it has been "youth" who has made the sacrifice when there was need for it.

The Declaration of Independence was penned by youth, youth starved and bled at Valley Forge, youth saved the Union in 1865. It was youth again who was bayoneted and gassed at Chateau-Thierry and Argonne Forest. Go back as far as you may—you will always find youth on the firing line of freedom. Don't go back but look around you—Camp Shelby, Fort Bragg, Camp Dix and many others—you'll find youth again being prepared to pay the price. And today, if an American policy is being framed which shall transform the future, all youth is ready to do what is required of them.

There is one thing that youth is demanding in regard to service,—they expect "justice" from the boards and medical examiners who have it within their power to accept or reject them. The same rules and regulations should apply to all selectees in each and every county. When a boy in one county is rejected because he is engaged in agriculture and is essential to the food program of the nation, he wonders when he finds his cousin in the next county, who is doing the same work, is sent to camp.

George is forced to go to camp because his wife has a job—their home is dissolved because on her salary she can't maintain the expenses—her sister in a neighboring city is married and works and her husband is exempted because he is a married man and is placed in Class 3-A.

Another boy helps his aged mother, in fact is her only support. The board felt that he was head of the family and should remain at his post. Just across the border of the county we find two boys in one family who supported their aged parents, both were drafted and sent to camp and being back privates little could be sent home from their meager salaries.

A helpless public wonders why all draft boards do not follow the same routine in selection of its draftees, or Mr. Editor, is there some other specific reason why the rules are different in different counties? It makes the public wonder why a county line should change the fate of a boy's life, or that of his dependants.

It might be remedied if each draft board member would realize the solemn duty he has to his government, and to each individual with whom he has a vote in deciding that individual's fate. The Golden Rule would be a good gauge for judgment in every case plus a liberal amount of justice. Something should be done to eliminate confusion. In court where there is a possible chance of leniency or impartial judgment, generally a strange judge is summoned. Why don't local draft boards in the various counties consult superior army bodies or boards if they have difficulty in applying the same rules everywhere.

Our youth is our salvation, let's give them a square deal. I submit this inquiry in behalf of a confused public. Could local draft boards publish reasons for deviations in various cases where the same rules do not apply to all?

Sincerely yours,
An Inquirer.

TURNER TO TAKE PART IN STATE DEBATE FINALS

Paul Turner, representative of Circleville High School, will compete Friday in the extemporaneous division of the Ohio Speech League finals to be conducted at Ohio State University. Turner was chosen in a district elimination.

Ohio's best high school debaters, orators and actors will gather at the university Friday and Saturday to decide state championships. Seventy-five individual competitors, 21 debate teams and 16 one-act play groups will compete.

Debate teams will include Wooster, Canton McKinley, Massillon, East Cleveland Shaw, Belaire, Columbus North, Lima Central, Lima South, Bettsville, Shreve, Melmore-Eden, Delta and Ada.

One-act plays will be presented by Osborn, Columbus North, Ada, Sylvania, Wadsworth, Mineral Ridge, Doylestown, Smithville, Amsden-Jackson and Bettsville.

Governor John W. Bricker, who in student days was a member of Ohio State's debate team, will appear at the final session to present the trophies.

Subject for debate is: "Resolved, that the Power of the Federal Government Should be Increased."

This year's competition, according to Dr. Walter B. Emery of Ohio State's speech department, has attracted a record number of entries—135 in debate, 94 in one-act plays, 69 in extempore speaking, 63 in original oratory.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HOUSE PASSES MEDICAL BILL BY 110-8 VOTE

Measure Would Legalize Service Associations Through State

FARM BUREAU OBJECTS

Average Cost For Each Family Participating Is Outlined

COLUMBUS, April 3—The highly controversial Mahoney Bill, which would legalize the establishment of medical service associations in Ohio, moved to the senate today, where even more bitter debate than was experienced in the house was anticipated in the closing weeks of the 94th General Assembly.

With the staunch backing of the Ohio State Medical Association and medical associations in more than 80 of the state's 88 counties, the bill was passed overwhelmingly by the house, 110-8, despite last minute opposition by the Ohio CIO and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Under terms of the measure, sponsored by Rep. Margaret A. Mahoney, (R-Cuyahoga), non-profit organizations approved by the state superintendent of insurance would be licensed to operate subscription plans, which would entitle participants to medical services for themselves or their families. Subscribers could choose their physician from the entire list of participating physicians.

However, at least 51 percent of the physicians in the territory covered by the organization would have to participate before the plan could be licensed.

Averages Provided

In Michigan, where a somewhat similar plan is operating, premiums are said to average $2 monthly for an individual, $3.50 for man and wife, and $4.50 for families with children under 19 years of age.

The Ohio measure would cover only families with incomes of less than $2,400, or individuals with incomes less than $1,800.

Farm Bureau and CIO opposition was ignored as the house rushed through the measure, although Ted Silvey, state CIO secretary, branded the measure as "a company union type of program."

In the senate, seven new bills were introduced, most of them pertaining only to local problems. They were:

Sen. Boyd and Sen. Zoul (D-Cleveland) to authorize the Cuyahoga County commissioners to light certain highways at the intersections of state highway 460 and state highway 17 in Cuyahoga County.

Sen. Parker (D-Akron) to provide additional legislation for grading, examining and regulating sale of eggs.

Sen. Nickels (R-New Philadelphia) to authorize the state highway director to exchange lands with the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad for highway purposes.

Sen. Lipscher (D-Mahoning) to abolish the municipal court of Youngstown and to establish a Mahoning County court with countywide jurisdiction.

Sen. Hoffman (R-Franklin) to transfer from the tax commissioner to the board of appeals the authority to remit taxes and penalties.

Bills passed by the Senate included:

Sen. Witter (D-Canton) To authorize Canton Township, Stark County, to pay $1000 to the Canton Township trustees as part payment on a judgment. The vote was 29-0.

Sen. Harter (D-Akron) To permit tax levies up to .65 of a mill outside the 10 mill limitation for tuberculosis hospitals. The vote was 30-1.

Sen. Vanik (D-Cleveland) and Sen. Young (D-Cleveland) to authorize municipalities to issue

When the first Liberty Loan Act was passed in World War No. 1 the House Ways and Means Committee put on its best bed-time manner and said: "It will be observed that the credit proposed to be extended to foreign governments will take care of itself and will not constitute an indebtedness that will have to be met by taxation in the future!"

We swallowed the pill. It was unfashionable to use common sense then, as now. Our "experts" looked wise, and who were we, the people, to question them?

The experts were just about thirteen billion dollars wrong. This sum is owing us from our allies of 25 years ago. It will have "to be met by taxation in the future", or be repudiated at home as it has been abroad.

We have just voted another seven billions of credit to our allies in World War No. II. Will it be repaid? Why, of course. Absolutely. Who says so? Mr. Roosevelt. He said, "For what we send abroad we shall be repaid, within a reasonable time following the close of hostilities." See his message to Congress, January 6, 1941.

"The King is a great magician, for his dominion extends to the minds of his subjects; he makes them think what he wishes". So it was said of old time.

I am not now questioning the wisdom of the seven billions. I do question the wisdom of fooling the American people. To fool them is to break down faith in our democracy. It is worse to lose faith than to lose money. And you can't fool all the people all the time. Time and the people catch up with mayors, governors, presidents and dictators. No one has ever escaped their final audit.

Today, under the cry of unity and patriotism the locks are being shut on the human mind. No criticism. See nothing, hear nothing, know nothing.

It is wrong. There should be criticism, and it should be welcomed, not rebuffed. Britain and Italy have found that out. If there had been criticism of their war preparations two and five years ago they would be better off today. We, too.

Everything, good or bad, now hides behind "national defense". In Michigan, for example, school commissioners are asking for a salary boost on the ground of "national defense". How can our democracy protect itself from slogans and political snake oil? You could not sell wooden nutmegs to the men who founded this Republic. Can we save it now—with arms alone? Or only by breeding more men and fewer mice?

But I was speaking of debt. An irritating subject. Scarcely mentioned in polite circles. But whether we talk of debt, debt will talk to us.

The other day the United States filed suit to garnish the cash value of a man's life insurance policy—the last thing he had on earth. Government debt spoke to that man with a loud voice. He owed the government and could not pay. So the government proceeded to strip him of his last penny.

No one gets anywhere talking about billions. But we do understand city debts and bond issues. So let us prorate the federal debt, down to a typical city of 100,000 population like South Bend, Indiana; Utica, New York; Duluth, Minnesota; Sacramento, California; Peoria, Illinois; Somerville, Massachusetts; Charlotte, North Carolina; or El Paso, Texas. These eight cities, all of them, owe together $45,516,000 of municipal debt.

In 1942 it is estimated that the bonds to construct bridges on existing highways. The vote was 29-0.

Sen. Kane (R-Cincinnati) To reduce statutory requirements on the creation and administration of credit unions. The vote was 34-0.

Sen. Zoul (D-Cleveland) To extend jurisdiction of the Bedford Municipal court to Bedford Township. The vote was 31-0.

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley Ashville, Phone 76

Preparing for the County schools Music Festival which is to be held at the local school auditorium this evening, the younger song birds and birdies have been with us in their final practice before the musical. Along with these singers is an orchestra of some near a hundred instruments. The cantata is directed by Miss Elizabeth Reber with Miss Gretchen Plum as piano accompanist. Charles Shell, Pickaway Township, will conduct the orchestra.

Plenty chick music about the postoffice these April days, parcels well filled of these downy ones coming in and out almost daily. Madison Township farms are getting their good share and Slate

Run Hollow, "ashville ago" used to be a fine place for roasts after band meeting sessions. And if we can "tune up" a few of those old boys and get 'em chicken roasts minded once more, may be having a few more roasts along next Fall, using some of these youngsters passing through the post-office now.

No word, and that's good news they say, from the Columbus hospital today regarding the condition of Doctor Gardner who was chief actor in an auto smashup near Lockbourne, coming through with no worse than a broken arm.

Word comes from Jay Gregg down in Florida, a Red Bird ball pitcher prospect, that there are 85 of them on the tryout as pitchers, and of course we Ashvillians who know Jay best are sure he's best of all.

According to the talk they're doing, Ashville is to have another good ball team. The Greggs, Pettibones and several others know their stuff and it won't be long now until an organization "backing up" the boys for necessary equipment, will be perfected and ready to go.

Registrar Clyde Brinker sold several more auto license plates Wednesday, the total number disposed of to date being many more than last year.

Fred Curry, awarded the contract for the East Side sewer work, is moving toward a beginning, now soon. The length is 562 feet and at places seven feet in depth. Several workers will be given employment.

INSTRUCT CAR OWNERS LAS VEGAS, N. M.,—Instructions on how to back up are being given Las Vegas motorists by police following a new traffic regulation which stipulates that motorists had to park parallel with the street instead of at an angle as heretofore.

EXPOSITION AIDS ARMY SAN FRANCISCO—The 1915 Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco is doing its bit in the present national defense drive. The Army, under provisions of the 1927 deed which thoughtfully provided such action in event of war or national emergency, has taken back the Palace of Fine Arts, sole remaining building of the old Fair. The Army is turning it into a medical supply depot.

HOUSE PASSES MEDICAL BILL BY 110-8 VOTE

Measure Would Legalize Service Associations
Through State

FARM BUREAU OBJECTS

Average Cost For Each Family Participating
Is Outlined

COLUMBUS, April 3.—The highly controversial Mahoney Bill, which would legalize the establishment of medical service associations in Ohio, moved to the senate today, where even more bitter debate than was experienced in the house was anticipated in the closing weeks of the 94th General Assembly.

With the staunch backing of the Ohio State Medical Association and medical associations in more than 80 of the state's 88 counties, the bill was passed overwhelmingly by the house, 110-8, despite last minute opposition by the Ohio CIO and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Under terms of the measure, sponsored by Rep. Margaret A. Mahoney, (R-Cuyahoga), non-profit organizations approved by the state superintendent of insurance would be licensed to operate subscription plans, which would entitle participants to medical services for themselves or their families. Subscribers could choose their physician from the entire list of participating physicians.

However, at least 51 percent of the physicians in the territory covered by the organization would have to participate before the plan could be licensed.

Averages Provided
In Michigan, where a somewhat similar plan is operating, premiums are said to average $2 monthly for an individual, $3.50 for man and wife, and $4.50 for families with children under 19 years of age.

The Ohio measure would cover only families with incomes of less than $2,400, or individuals with incomes less than $1,500.

Farm Bureau and CIO opposition was ignored as the house rushed through the measure, although Ted Silvey, state CIO secretary, branded the measure as "a company union type of program."

In the senate, seven new bills were introduced, most of them pertaining only to local problems. They were:

Sen. Boyd and Sen. Zoul (D-Cleveland) to authorize the Cuyahoga County commissioners to light certain highways at the intersections of state highway 460 and state highway 17 in Cuyahoga County.

Sen. Parker (D-Akron) to provide additional legislation for grading, examining and regulating sale of eggs.

Sen. Nickels (R-New Philadelphia) to authorize the state highway director to exchange lands with the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad for highway purposes.

Sen. Lipscher (D-Mahoning) to abolish the municipal court of Youngstown and to establish a Mahoning County court with countywide jurisdiction.

Sen. Hoffman (R-Franklin) to transfer from the tax commissioner to the board of appeals the authority to remit taxes and penalties.

Bills passed by the Senate included:

Sen. Witter (D-Canton) to authorize Canton Township, Stark County, to pay $1000 to the Canton Township trustees as part payment on a judgment. The vote was 29-0.

Sen. Harter (D-Akron) to permit tax levies up to .65 of a mill outside the 10 mill limitation for tuberculosis hospitals. The vote was 30-1.

Federal debt will reach $65 billions. That will amount, per capita, to $494.65. Per family of four, to $1,978.60. Per town of 10,000, $4,946,500. Per city of 100,000, $49,465,000. If you want to apply it to your town or city, multiply your population by $494.65.

In short, the share of each of these eight cities of 100,000 population, in the federal debt, will be more than the total municipal debt of the entire eight. South Bend city debt is $1,730,000. Its share of the Federal debt will be $49,465,000. Would its taxpayers vote themselves such a debt? No, you have to do it with mirrors.

The next question is, could South Bend pay a debt of $49,465,000? At the present interest rate South Bend will pay, annually, as its share of Federal taxes to meet Federal interest, $1,172,000. When the Federal debt reaches $100 billions, South Bend's share of the interest charge, annually, will be more than its total city debt. It will have to pay the equivalent of its entire present debt, each year, year after year. This is what is hidden at the foot of the rainbow. It will appear in the final audit.

Cooperation Is Given By Employment Office

Full cooperation is being given employers by the local Employment Security Center in recruiting workers for jobs opening in connection with the National Defense program, it was pointed out Thursday by Manager Earle C. Duncan. The Columbus Center operates branch offices at Delaware, Marysville, London and Circleville, which are open temporarily daily Monday through Friday.

"Our office is taking part in the nation-wide movement to enroll qualified workers needed to accelerate the production of defense material," Manager Duncan said. He explained that the greatest need of industry today is for men who have been trained in the various branches of aircraft manufacture, shipbuilding, and in precision machine and tool work.

"In Columbus and vicinity," Manager Duncan said, "we must first register those workers skilled and experienced in trades essential to national defense production providing that they are not employing these skills in their present jobs, and workers whose educational background or adaptability indicates that they may be readily trained for defense jobs."

He emphasized that the employment service does not encourage nor desire the registration of workers now employed in any of the essential industries. Nor are those having vital defense skills but engaged in some other line asked to quit their jobs. They are merely requested to register their qualifications so that they may be called when and if needed in an important defense industry.

Appreciation was expressed by Manager Duncan for the response to the letter of William S. Knudsen, co-director of the Federal Office of Production Management, in which holders of defense contracts were urged to use the services of the local state employment office to marshal needed labor. Other employers, too, are availing themselves of the facilities offered by the employment service, he said.

Pickaway County grand jury returned to the Court House Thursday after recessing Wednesday to permit the Court of Appeals to occupy the court room. The jury may complete its 33-case schedule Thursday night or early Friday, according to Prosecutor George Gerhardt.

Appeals Court judges finished their three-case schedule early Wednesday afternoon. Their decisions will be submitted within 30 to 60 days, court officials said. The three appeals considered by the court were the Muhlenberg County board school dispute, W. F. McCrady's $13,300 damage suit against the Benedict Transportation Company and the Crites Oil-Ralston Purina litigation.

COAL

THE internal peace that this country needs so imperatively just now is mainly labor peace, and particularly in coal production.

Coal, of course, is basic. The vast industrial effort to which our nation is now committed, for our own protection and the defense of freedom abroad, depends on coal far more than anything else. This great source of power must not be interrupted.

Intelligence and patriotism both should impress the fact indelibly on the minds of the leaders of the coal industry and of the men they lead. It is unthinkable that the steady production of industrial fuel should be interrupted in this world crisis for any reason whatever.

Coal production, no doubt, could go on, though less effectively, by the government taken over the mines and operating them itself. A general strike at this time might compel such action. And that might mean complete nationalization of the industry.

FEWER DROWNINGS

IN 1939 deaths by drowning decreased sharply in number. The total of 6,700 was the lowest in years. The trend continued downward in 1940. This good record has come in a period when there are more community swimming pools and more swimmers than ever before.

The Red Cross, though modest, believes it may have helped bring this happy development. The organization gives life-saving training. Many children, learning to swim, must learn at the same time to rescue drowning persons, how to use artificial respiration, and so on.

They also learn safety rules about swimming, such as not going into the water for at least one hour after eating, not going in suddenly when overheated, not swimming alone, not diving without knowing the depth of the water and what lies beneath the surface.

It must be that they really practice what they learn. If motorists and pedestrians were so faithful in following traffic rules the highway death toll would drop faster.

FLOWERS FOR THE BOMBED

A SURPRISING commercial announcement is that of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association. The whole world, they say, is still a flower market. According to an official, the association has 6,000 members in Europe, Asia and Africa. Last year American orders for flowers were filled in all parts of Europe. The value was nearly $150,000. The association still guarantees delivery of orders practically everywhere except in certain parts of unoccupied France.

This seems almost incredible. It means

NAVY STUDIES BARGES

WASHINGTON—The Navy has been making some careful studies of how to carry out Roosevelt's promise of a bridge of ships across the North Atlantic to carry supplies to England. One result is an unique plan for anchoring flat-bottomed scows or barges in mid-Atlantic to serve as refueling depots for airplanes. The plan is not yet perfected, and still awaits higher-up approval. But here are details of the revolutionary idea.

British experience in the North Atlantic has shown that scouting-bombing planes are the most effective protection for merchant vessels. Planes can sight an undersea boat at a far greater distance than a surface vessel, then drop bombs on it.

Chief problem is the refueling of these planes. Expensive aircraft carriers, requiring three years to build, cannot be used as airplane bases in mid-Atlantic. They are too easy targets for submarines.

However, the flat-bottomed scow does not have sufficient depth in the water to be a target for a submarine torpedo. The scow has a draft of only three feet, compared with a 30-foot draft by a cruiser, and 35 feet by an aircraft carrier.

Furthermore, in the relatively storm-free summer months, flat-bottomed barges would experience little trouble from weather. They would be subject to attack from the air, but on the other hand each would be defended by its own scouting planes, and if it were sunk the cost of replacement would be insignificant.

Whether the barges and their accompanying planes would be constructed for use under the British flag, or whether the United States would risk its own planes that far at sea has not yet been determined. But it is known that the Navy has the scheme under consideration.

BRAINS, NOT MONEY

Clarence Budington Kelland is at the top of his profession when it comes to magazine fiction writing, but what he doesn't know about politics would fill the longest serial written.

Kelland, a super-Roosevelt hater, is Republican National Committeeman from Arizona, where he lives on a model ranch. His efforts to spread the GOP gospel there have been something less than sensational, since Arizona still remains one of the strongest Roosevelt states in the country.

Last year, though, when polls showed the President leading in Arizona by a wide margin, Kelland adamantly insisted the state could be swung to Willkie. GOP campaign chiefs paid little attention to him, but Kelland had better luck with the candidate himself. Willkie went 400 miles out of his way to make a speech in Arizona.

Election results confirmed the judgment of the campaign chiefs, but Kelland wasn't satisfied. During the recent National Committee meeting in Washington he post-mortemed noisily to a luncheon group which included Mrs. Worthington

SYNOPSIS
TOM FORMAN, husky, young, but out of work, prevents BETSY CARTER from committing suicide by drowning at a southern beach. When he learns that he must be married to get a job as caretaker of Halcynon Island, owned by JORDAN MARKHAM, a wealthy invader, she agrees to become his wife.

Tom takes her to introduce her to Markham.

CHAPTER FOUR

BURTON LED Betsy upstairs, shortly after her narrow escape from drowning.

A stout, comfortable looking woman in a neat black taffeta dress, a narrow white collar buttoned beneath her plump chin, sat at a small table playing solitaire. She looked up and over her glasses as Burton said, "The lady's happened to an accident, Martha. The master thought you might find her something dry to wear while she's having her dinner."

"Well, of course I can. Come in, ma'am," said Mrs. Burton hospitably and shooed Burton away. "Now, you get those wet things right off, while I see what I can find for you. It's certain you can't wear anything of mine, isn't it?" She laughed cheerfully as she went out.

When she came back she was carrying over her arm a velvet tea gown sufficiently like the present-day hostess' gowns not to be too quaint. Its color was a deep rose, and the wide sleeves were made of heavy silver lace; there was a silver cord that could be knotted about the waist, so that the garment suggested that it might be made to fit; there were silver brocaded boudoir slippers as well, and underthings that were fragile as cobwebs, soft and smelling faintly of lavender.

"One of Mr. Markham's house-guests left it behind after a visit some years ago," Mrs. Burton explained, as she helped Betsy to change into the velvet garment.

Betsy's eyes widened a little as she caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror. With her sooty black hair curling in damp ringlets about her face, her slim body clad in the very becoming rose velvet, she was almost lovely! And the knowledge lifted her spirits enormously.

Mrs. Burton led her back to the library, saying cheerfully, "And while you're having dinner, miss, I'll get your own clothes pressed and fixed for you."

Tom stood up when Betsy came in, almost startled. And Mr. Markham, catching the look in Tom's eyes, nodded as though in satisfaction. But before anything more than casual words could be exchanged, Burton had announced dinner.

Betsy looked about the big room, the small, round table set for three in the middle of it, a great silver bowl of roses on the lace cloth, delicate china, exquisite crystal and silver shimmering in the light from tall white candles. And little more than an hour ago she had been on the verge of suicide, starving, friendless, sick with horror!

It didn't seem possible that she could be here now, in this beautiful room surrounded by luxury and comfort, wearing a velvet gown and about to dine extravagantly and beautifully!

Burton and an attendant footman served the delicious meal, and it was a most ceremonious affair. At least it seemed ceremonious to the wide-eyed, enchanted Betsy, who listened hazily to Tom's and Mr. Markham's conversation, devoted chiefly to politics, the foreign situation and such.

Nothing was said to indicate the nature of the job about which she and Tom had come to see Mr. Markham, until after dinner was over and the three of them were back in the library.

Mr. Markham had offered Betsy a cigarette, and Betsy had smiled shyly and shook her head. "An expensive habit I've never been able to afford to acquire," she admitted with a sturdy honesty that quickened his interest in her. He smiled in approval.

Tom accepted the cigar Mr. Markham offered to him, and when the two cigars were burning cheerfully, Mr. Markham looked from one to the other of the eager young faces turned toward him.

Mrs. Burton came back with a velvet tea gown over her arm.

"And now of course you want to know more about this mysterious job I have for you," he said, smiling, though there was a shadow at the back of his eyes to which the smile did not quite reach. "Well, I don't blame you—although it's not nearly as mysterious as it sounds. I simply want you to act as caretakers for an island development I am planning."

"But—why did you insist on having a married couple? Why couldn't just a man have been sufficient?" demanded Betsy, her heart sinking as she discovered the prosaic quality of the job.

Mr. Markham studied the glowing tip of his cigar for a moment. It seemed to Betsy that there was a tautness about his mouth as he answered her almost sternly, "Because the island development is for the benefit of honeymoon couples—and there must be a hostess, as well as a host, there to greet them."

Betsy and Tom exchanged swift, puzzled glances.

"The island has belonged to me for a good many years—25 or more," Mr. Markham explained. "I bought it with the thought that it would make a beautiful winter home, and I meant it as a gift for the girl I was to marry. It seemed to me the most idyllic spot imaginable for a honeymoon. I'd waited rather a long time to marry. I wanted to have money enough to guarantee my wife every possible luxury. Neither of us had ever had more than just barely enough money to pay for the actual necessities of life. I'd seen so much of poverty and drudgery. I saw men and women madly in love and trying to scrape along on 'barely enough,' while the quality of their love grew strained and saddened by their hardships—I wanted something better than that for MY wife. So we waited. We met and fell in love when I was 24 and she was 19. Life to us was a pretty wonderful thing. She wanted to marry me and to help me build, but I wanted to lay the world at her feet first! And I was 35 before I felt that I could offer her the things I wanted her to have."

He was still for a moment, living in the past, and Betsy and Tom were quiet, held with him in that momentary grip of silence in which he mentally trod the road to the past.

"I bought and paid for the island," he said, after a tense moment of stillness. "The plans for our home had been approved by Nancy. The house was to be finished and ready for us when we returned from a story book honeymoon cruise aboard my yacht—"

Again he was still, and they saw the white line that etched itself about his mouth. The silence this time lasted longer. He looked up at last, from Tom's concerned, interested face to Betsy's.

"Nancy was killed in an automobile crash on her way to the church for our wedding." He brought the words out as though each one must be torn loose separately, with a rending moment of agony.

Betsy cried out, a little stricken cry of deep pity; Tom said something in an undertone that expressed his thought; Mr. Markham smiled at them, a smile that was little more than a grimace.

"So you see, I have a great anxiety to feel that at least some few people should know the happiness Nancy and I might have had on Halcynon Island," said Mr. Markham after a long moment. "I've had plans drawn up. The house that Nancy and I planned is to be built. Surrounding it will be six small cottages, far enough apart to give the privacy that all honeymoon couples want, yet close enough so that they need not feel isolated. It is my plan that six honeymooning couples be selected to come to the island for periods of 30 days; you, as host and hostess, will occupy the house that Nancy and I planned. It will be your duty to select, from a vast number of applications, the couples who are to come. And you are to see to it that they are made comfortable. Their happiness will, of course, be a thing they themselves will have to attend to."

He smiled a little at their surprised faces, and after a moment he asked quietly, "Well, what do you think of the job I'm offering you?"

"It sounds too fantastic and much too wonderful to be true," said Tom swiftly.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a fine morning, so after a glance at the morning print headlines did turn to the back yard for inspection of tree and shrub. Found them much more confident than I am of the advent of Spring. Also the garden yelling for attention. Another week and the lawn will need mowing.

Met Ed Sensesbrenner at the post and chatted with Charlie May. The barrister told of a friend who was much pleased because he had found another man harder-up than himself. Had a higher auto license number. Told Charlie to catch my number as he left and then pass that one on to his friend. That will make him feel much better.

Saw a string of trailers passing through the ville. All bore signs on which was printed, "U. S. Government Emergency Mobile Housing Unit." A phase of preparedness, I suppose. Would be pretty fine if the government would move one of those on the shore of a North Michigan lake in about four weeks and demand that I move into it. Don't know what the trailers will be used for unless it is to house workers around some of the fast expanding industrial plants and for possible use in the case of war and necessary evacuation of cities.

There goes Mack Moore in his auto and bearing a bright new license tag. Not in such bad condition, that car, when one considers that it is only 26 years old. Much older than the owner and still chugs right along. That word reminds me of one time when I did not chug at all. Two trucks and another car and a half dozen men were required to pull me out of a mud-hole in a highway at Chugwater, Wyoming, not so many years ago.

In the afternoon did have business in Columbus with Barrister Earl Smith. Enroute we made a slight detour to the Franklin County Sanitarium and called on George Lane. After visiting hours, but we marched right in as though we owned the place and none stopped us. Found George propped up in bed on a sleeping porch. Haven't seen an expression of as great surprise and delight ever as was his when he saw us. Almost jumped out of bed and held out a hand to each of us. "Darned lonesome here at times," he declared. "And I get really homesick. Suppose this hospital is a little too far off the road for Circleville folk to call." Well, I'll tell you all who know George that it isn't. It is worth a hundred mile drive to see that look on his face. George looks much better than when he was home the last time, and he is extremely hopeful of complete recovery. How about dropping in on him, you folk who know him.

Home in the early evening and with not a single meeting to attend for a change, did hunt out the easiest chair and went at that "Out of The Night" with full determination to finish it. Which I did. Turned then to the refrigerator for a beaker of milk and turned in at a reasonable hour.

COAL

THE internal peace that this country needs so imperatively just now is mainly labor peace, and particularly in coal production.

Coal, of course, is basic. The vast industrial effort to which our nation is now committed, for our own protection and the defense of freedom abroad, depends on coal far more than anything else. This great source of power must not be interrupted.

Intelligence and patriotism both should impress the fact indelibly on the minds of the leaders of the coal industry and of the men they lead. It is unthinkable that the steady production of industrial fuel should be interrupted in this world crisis for any reason whatever.

Coal production, no doubt, could go on,
though less effectively, by the government
taken over the mines and operating them itself. A general strike at this time might compel such action. And that might mean complete nationalization of the industry.

FEWER DROWNINGS

IN 1939 deaths by drowning decreased sharply in number. The total of 6,700 was the lowest in years. The trend continued downward in 1940. This good record has come in a period when there are more community swimming pools and more swimmers than ever before.

The Red Cross, though modest, believes it may have helped bring this happy development. The organization gives life-saving training. Many children, learning to swim, must learn at the same time to rescue drowning persons, how to use artificial respiration, and so on.

They also learn safety rules about swimming, such as not going into the water for at least one hour after eating, not going in suddenly when overheated, not swimming alone, not diving without knowing the depth of the water and what lies beneath the surface.

It must be that they really practice what they learn. If motorists and pedestrians were so faithful in following traffic rules the highway death toll would drop faster.

FLOWERS FOR THE BOMBED

A SURPRISING commercial announcement is that of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association. The whole world, they say, is still a flower market. According to an official, the association has 6,000 members in Europe, Asia and Africa. Last year American orders for flowers were filled in all parts of Europe. The value was nearly $150,000. The association still guarantees delivery of orders practically everywhere except in certain parts of unoccupied France.

This seems almost incredible. It means

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

NAVY STUDIES BARGES

WASHINGTON—The Navy has been making some careful studies of how to carry out Roosevelt's promise of a bridge of ships across the North Atlantic to carry supplies to England. One result is an unique plan for anchoring flat-bottomed scows or barges in mid-Atlantic to serve as refueling depots for airplanes.

The plan is not yet perfected, and still awaits higher-up approval. But here are details of the revolutionary idea.

British experience in the North Atlantic has shown that scouting-bombing planes are the most effective protection for merchant vessels. Planes can sight an undersea boat at a far greater distance than a surface vessel, then drop bombs on it.

Chief problem is the refueling of these planes. Expensive aircraft carriers, requiring three years to build, cannot be used as airplane bases in mid-Atlantic.
They are too easy targets for submarines.

However, the flat-bottomed scow does not have sufficient depth in the water to be a target for a submarine torpedo. The scow has a draft of only three feet, compared with a 30-foot draft by a cruiser, and 35 feet by an aircraft carrier.

Furthermore, in the relatively storm-free summer months, flat-bottomed barges would experience little trouble from weather. They would be subject to attack from the air, but on the other hand each would be defended by its own scouting planes, and if it were sunk the cost of replacement would be insignificant.

Whether the barges and their accompanying planes would be constructed for use under the British flag, or whether the United States would risk its own planes that far at sea has not yet been determined. But it is known that the Navy has the scheme under consideration.

BRAINS, NOT MONEY

Clarence Budington Kelland is at the top of his profession when it comes to magazine fiction writing, but what he doesn't know about politics would fill the longest serial written.

Kelland, a super-Roosevelt hater, is Republican National Committeeman from Arizona, where he lives on a model ranch.
His efforts to spread the GOP gospel there have been something less than sensational, since Arizona still remains one of the strongest Roosevelt states in the country.

Last year, though, when polls showed the President leading in Arizona by a wide margin, Kelland adamantly insisted the state could be swung to Willkie. GOP campaign chiefs paid little attention to him, but Kelland had better luck with the candidate himself. Willkie went 400 miles out of his way to make a speech in Arizona.

Election results confirmed the judgment of the campaign chiefs, but Kelland wasn't satisfied. During the recent National Committee meeting in Washington
he post-mortemed noisily to a luncheon group which included Mrs. Worthington

CHAPTER FOUR

BURTON LED Betsy upstairs, shortly after her narrow escape from drowning.

A stout, comfortable looking woman in a neat black taffeta dress, a narrow white collar buttomed beneath her plump chin, sat
at a small table playing solitaire.
She looked up and over her glasses
as Burton said, "The lady's happened to an accident, Martha. The master thought you might find her something dry to wear while she's having her dinner."

"Well, of course I can. Come in, ma'am," said Mrs. Burton hospitably and shooed Burton away.
"Now, you get those wet things right off, while I see what I can find for you. It's certain you can't wear anything of mine, isn't it?"
She laughed cheerfully as she went out.

When she came back she was carrying over her arm a velvet tea gown sufficiently like the present-day hostess's gowns not to be too quaint. Its color was a deep rose, and the wide sleeves were made of heavy silver lace; there was a silver cord that could be knotted about the waist, so that the garment suggested that it might be made to fit; there were silver brocade boudoir slippers as well, and underthings that were fragile as cobwebs, soft and smelling faintly of lavender.

"One of Mr. Markham's house-guests left it behind after a visit some years ago," Mrs. Burton explained, as she helped Betsy to change into the velvet garment.

Betsy's eyes widened a little as she caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror. With her sooty black hair curling in damp ringlets about her face, her slim body clad in the very becoming rose velvet, she was almost lovely! And the knowledge lifted her spirits enormously.

Mrs. Burton led her back to the library, saying cheerfully, "And while you're having dinner, miss,
I'll get your own clothes pressed and fixed for you."

Tom stood up when Betsy came in, almost startled. And Mr. Markham, catching the look in Tom's eyes, nodded as though in satisfaction. But before anything more than casual words could be exchanged, Burton had announced dinner.

Betsy looked about the big room,
the small, round table set for three in the middle of it, a great silver bowl of roses on the lace cloth, delicate china, exquisite crystal and silver shimmering in the light from tall white candles. And little more than an hour ago she had been on the verge of suicide, starving, friendless, sick with horror!
It didn't seem possible that she could be here now, in this beautiful room surrounded by luxury and comfort, wearing a velvet gown and about to dine extravagantly and beautifully!

Burton and an attendant footman served the delicious meal, and it was a most ceremonious affair.
At least it seemed ceremonious to the wide-eyed, enchanted Betsy, who listened hazily to Tom's and Mr. Markham's conversation, devoted chiefly to politics, the foreign situation and such.

Nothing was said to indicate the nature of the job about which she and Tom had come to see Mr.
Markham, until after dinner was over and the three of them were back in the library.

Mr. Markham had offered Betsy a cigarette, and Betsy had smiled shyly and shook her head. "An expensive habit I've never been able to acquire," she admitted with a sturdy honesty that quickened his interest in her. He smiled in approval.

Tom accepted the cigar Mr.
Markham offered to him, and when the two cigars were burning cheerfully, he could only cross the homing pigeon with the always-being-borrowed umbrella.

Mrs. Burton came back with a velvet tea gown over her arm.

fully, Mr. Markham looked from one to the other of the eager young faces turned toward him.

"And now of course you want to know more about this mysterious job I have for you," he said, smiling, though there was a shadow at the back of his eyes to which the smile did not quite reach. "Well, I don't blame you—although it's not nearly as mysterious as it sounds.
I simply want you to act as caretakers for an island development I am planning."

"But—why did you insist on having a married couple? Why couldn't just a man have been sufficient?" demanded Betsy, her heart sinking as she discovered the prosaic quality of the job.

Mr. Markham studied the glowing tip of his cigar for a moment.
It seemed to Betsy that there was a tauness about his mouth as he answered her almost sternly, "Because the island development is for the benefit of honeymoon couples —and there must be a hostess, as well as a host, there to greet them."

Betsy and Tom exchanged swift, puzzled glances.

"The island has belonged to me for a good many years—25 or more," Mr. Markham explained. "I bought it with the thought that it would make a beautiful winter home, and I meant it as a gift for the girl I was to marry. It seemed to me the most idyllic spot imaginable for a honeymoon. I'd waited rather a long time to marry. I wanted to have money enough to guarantee my wife every possible luxury. Neither of us had ever had more than just barely enough money to pay for the actual necessities of life. I'd seen so much of poverty and drudgery. I'd seen men and women madly in love and trying to scrape along on 'barely enough,' while the quality of their love grew strained and saddened by their hardships—I wanted something better than that for MY wife.
So we waited. We met and fell in love when I was 24 and she was 19.
Life to us was a pretty wonderful thing. She wanted to marry me and to help me build, but I wanted to lay the world at her feet first! And I was 35 before I felt that I could offer her the things I wanted her to have."

He was still for a moment, living in the past, and Betsy and Tom were quiet, held with him in that momentary grip of silence in which he mentally trod the road to the past.

"I bought and paid for the island," he said, after a tense moment of stillness. "The plans for our home had been approved by Nancy. The house was to be finished and ready for us when we returned from a story book honymoon cruise aboard my yacht—"

Again he was still, and they saw the white line that etched itself about his mouth. The silence this time lasted longer. He looked up at last, from Tom's concerned, interested face to Betsy's.

"Nancy was killed in an automobile crash on her way to the church for our wedding." He brought the words out as though each one must be torn loose separately, with a rending moment of agony.

Betsy cried out, a little stricken cry of deep pity; Tom said something in an undertone that expressed his thought; Mr. Markham smiled at them, a smile that was little more than a grimace.

"So you see, I have a great anxiety to feel that at least some few people should know the happiness Nancy and I might have had on Halcyon Island," said Mr. Markham after a long moment. "I've had plans drawn up. The house that Nancy and I planned is to be built. Surrounding it will be six small cottages, far enough apart to give the privacy that all honymoon couples want, yet close enough so that they need not feel isolated. It is my plan that six honeymooning couples be selected to come to the island for periods of 30 days; you, as host and hostess, will occupy the house that Nancy and I planned. It will be your duty to select, from a vast number of applications, the couples who are to come. And you are to see to it that they are made comfortable.
Their happiness will, of course, be a thing they themselves will have to attend to."

He smiled a little at their surprised faces, and after a moment he asked quietly, "Well, what do you think of the job I'm offering you?"

"It sounds too fantastic and much too wonderful to be true," said Tom swiftly.

Child Conservation League
Mrs. G. D. Phillips reviewed "Pioneers of Plenty", a book chosen from the Teachers' Reading Circle, at the meeting of the Child Conservation League Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Joe Adkins, Jr., Northridge Road. Mrs. Phillips was presented by Mrs. Clark Will, year program chairman.

Mrs. Phillips gave a splendid review, saying in part: "Although the word 'chemurgy' is not yet in your dictionary, it already effects your life far more than you realize. The roots of the word are chemi, an Egyptian word meaning black soil, and urgon, a Greek word for work; by joining the two we have chemurgy, meaning 'chemistry at work'."

Mrs. Phillips told of the six greatest chemurgists of this country, including Dr. William Jay Hale, pioneer of the power alcohol proponents, and author of the book "The Dawn of the Alcohol Era"; Dr. Charles Holmes Hirt, world famous among chemists for his development of revolutionary technique in the turpentine industry; Dr. Francis Patrick Garvan, a crusader for medical research; Dr. Leo Bakeland, who gave 'Bakelite', the king of plastics, to man; Henry Ford, who has shown the possibilities of the soy bean, and George Washington Carver, the first and one of the greatest chemurgists, being a Negro, and called the 'Savior of the South', the wizard of the peanut.

Mrs. Phillips continued: "By the use of surplus food stuffs and other waste products, we have obtained countless comforts for our present day life. Under the miracles performed by our chemurgists comes the development of cellophane, nylon, plastics, rubber from coal, limestone and salt, masonite, rayon and lanital." In conclusion, Mrs. Phillips said: "In accord with Thoreau, these pioneers of plenty believe that 'the frontiers are not east or west, north or south, but wherever a man fronts a fact.'"

Seventeen members were present with Mrs. Tom Renick presiding. Mrs. Ray Rowland of St. Louis, a member of the league while residing in Circleville, was at the meeting.

The league voted to present a Clair Tree Major Play, "Sleeping Beauty", March 25, 1942.

Mrs. E. L. Crist reported that the Bundles for Britain unit were sponsoring "Alice in Wonderland", also a Clair Tree Major production.

The annual spring card party of the league will be omitted this year.

UNION REDUCES PICKET FORCES AT ROUGE PLANT

Company Office Officials Permitted To Enter Struck Factory

ported—a worker who evidently hadn't heard that there was a strike and that the plant was closed tried to walk in Gate Four although dissuaded by both police and company service men. He was ready and willing to fight them and the pickets, and did. When he got into the plant it was the emergency hospital and not his job that claimed him.

All through the night Dewey with state mediators and Eli Oliver of the Office of Production Management in Washington sat alternately with UAW and Ford representatives, the latter headed by Charles Mack, Dearborn sales agent, without gaining any apparent ground for a solid peace.

The union had a five-point program of demands which included a ten cents an hour increase, abolition of the company's service department, establishment of strict seniority, recognition of shop stewards and reinstatement of all workers discharged because of union affiliation and against that was the company's charges the union was "Communist controlled" and engaged in terroristic acts.

The particularly ominous note in the situation was that there were men ready to try to get into the Ford plant strike or no strike and there were men determined to stop them. One group of 3,000 employees, mostly Negroes, started a back to work movement late last night but were restrained by A. F. of L. leaders.

Homer Martin, one-time UAW president, was among those who urged them to wait out the day and see how the meditation efforts go before acting.

ed to Secretary of State Cordell Hull for his approval during the day and may be delivered to the German and Italian embassies before nightfall.

Despite German threats of retaliation, including the arrest and brief detention of four American citizens in Berlin and reports that American property in Germany may be confiscated, the United States government intended to stand pat on its seizure of the ships and prosecution of the German sailors for attempting to sabotage their vessels in American waters.

The government has not yet reached any decision concerning final disposition of the seized ships. Pending a decision on this question, it was decided to order the local coastguard authorities to haul down the American flag which coastguardsmen had hoisted on the German freighter Arauca when that ship was seized at Port Everglades, Fla. Removal of the flag was one of the demands made by the German embassy on its note of protest to the State Department.

German Charge d'Affaires Hans Thomsen also demanded immediate release of the crews and the two German vessels; permission for the German sailors to remain aboard their ships and "unreserved" restoration to the ships of the rights recognized under international law.

BERLIN, April 3—The German government planned sharp retaliatory measures today in reply to seizure of German and Italian merchant ships by the United States.

Other Western Hemisphere nations which have seized axis shipping will be "death with similarity," authoritative quarter said, but the counter-measures planned by the Reich have not yet been revealed.

One German spokesman commented:

"The American attitude is ridiculous. Sailors can do as they please aboard their own ship. They can wreck machinery so long as it does not affect harbor property."

"President Roosevelt and Attorney General Robert Jackson are imitating Ghengis Khan."

GILMORE JAILED AFTER TWO COURT HEARINGS

Daniel Gilmore, Hayward Street, was committed to county jail Wednesday night after being fined $100 and costs for driving when under the influence of alcohol and $25 and costs for illegal possession of game by Mayor William B. Cady.

Gilmore was arrested at 2:55 a. m. Wednesday by Patrolman Carl Radcliff, who found a dead rabbit in the back of the car after he had arrested the driver for being intoxicated.

WINDSORS ABOARD YACHT GROUNDED DURING NIGHT

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 3—None the worse for their experience, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor continued their cruise among outlying islands today after the yacht Rene, which went aground 50 miles from Nassau, was refloated this morning.

The yacht, owned by Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors, proceeded under its own power.

grade openly expressed his concern over the delicacy of Hungary's position.

"We have a pact of non-aggression with Yugoslavia," he said. "At the same time, we are bound by the terms of the tripartite pact."

Neutral sources here linked Hitler's plans with seemingly authentic indications that Italy's offensive campaign in Albania has blown up entirely. Fascist troops are hastily erecting ordinary defensive barricades in the few strategic positions they still hold.

All members of the German legation staff in Belgrade and of all Nazi consulates in Yugoslavia were ordered to return home. The same instructions went out to the 50 German civilians remaining in the country.

Only the German charge d'affaires and military attache are remaining in Belgrade.

The situation was explained by a high Yugoslav authority who said:

"The possibility we can escape war is extremely thin.

"There is only one hope. M. Ivo Andric, our minister to Germany, is arriving in Berlin this morning with a message for Hitler."

"This message sets forth that Yugoslavia is prepared to give 'all satisfaction' for the anti-German incidents of March 27 and 28. It also outlines the viewpoint of the Belgrade government as to how good relations between Yugoslavia and Germany may be preserved."

Meanwhile, military preparations went forward apace. While neutral military observers estimated that 1,500,000 Yugoslavs are now under arms, Belgrade was flooded with thousands of horse-carts driven in from the country side by peasants in line with a government requisition order.

Danube River traffic was paralyzed. German authorities refused to allow Yugoslav shipping to continue pending solution of the crisis.

There was no explanation of the sudden German order to its diplomatic and consular representatives, but Belgrade quarters openly expressed fears that it represented a move in preparation for war.

Germany's bombshell hit Belgrade amid reports that proposals for Italian mediation efforts had proved futile.

Another element of danger was injected into the crisis by the sinking of Yugoslavia's two most modern steamers in the Adriatic Sea by mines.

The sunken vessels were the 1,293-ton Karajordjevic and the 1,726-ton Crown Prince Peter, which went to the bottom at almost the same spot eight minutes after being blasted.

Warships saved 73 members of the ships' crews after the ships struck mines off the Port of Sibenik.

Yugoslavian officials made no attempt to blame any nation for sowing the mines.

VICHY — A usually reliable source in Vichy today reported that Soviet Russia has offered secretly to supply war material to Yugoslavia on the same basis as the American lease-lend plan.

BERLIN—A German communique today claimed destruction of two armed merchant ships by German fighter planes which attacked a convoy in the Mediterranean west of Crete. Successful raids on harbors in Scotland and south England also were reported.

RIO DE JANEIRO—The condition of her hull indicating a long and adventurous passage, the Italian liner Himalaya arrived in Rio De Janeiro today. The ship, whose arrival contrasted with the efforts of other axis vessels to flee new world ports, is a 6,240-ton craft of the Lloyd Trestino line.

NEW YORK — Yugoslavian leaders in New York today formed a provisional committee to raise funds for war relief in Yugoslavia "if and when Yugoslavia comes to the point of shooting."

ROME—Italian planes attacked and sank five large ships in the Mediterranean, the Italian high command announced today. A war bulletin also acknowledged that Italian forces had been evacuated from Asmara, capital of Eritrea.

LONDON — British Bristol-Bristol-Blenheim bombers scored direct hits on an armed merchant vessel off the Dutch coast yesterday and when last seen the ship was sinking, the Air Ministry announced today.

ROME—Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka departed from Rome today after a diplomatic visit that included important conferences with Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius XII. It was expected Matsuoka would return to Berlin and then proceed home to Tokyo via Moscow.

DIVISION OF AID MAN TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

William M. Vance, assistant to the chief of the Division of Aid for the Aged, Columbus, told 55 Rotarians at the Rotary Club luncheon in the American Hotel Hurricane Thursday noon that the primary purpose of the Division is to provide aid for old folk who had no means of providing for themselves. He outlined the work of the division in Ohio, listed the qualifications needed for application and explained misunderstandings which have arisen concerning the old age program.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Art Howson, Chillicothe; Floyd Barlow, Wooster; J. H. Davies, Long Beach, California, and Robert Scanland, Lancaster.

This has been done in some airplane factories, it was said.

The chief weapon, however, according to both Dies committee investigators and defense officials, is calling of a strike in an industry which supplies vital parts to many industries.

19 Plants Suffer

A strike in a plant producing ferro-vanadium slowed up activity of 19 aircraft factories using the material. The Allis-Chalmers and other strikes held up expansion of power plants needed for aluminum production.

Officials of the Tennessee Valley authority, rushing construction of new plants to produce aluminum, reported that inability to get turbines is slowing up its program. Work on five power plants in the far west also is being held up.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, it was learned, is worried over slowing up of the two-ocean navy program. A senator who sought to contact navy officials yesterday was told by Undersecretary Forrestal that all high navy officials were spending the entire day on strike problems.

Because of a 10-day recess by the house and virtual suspension of senate business for the same period, no congressional legislation was possible immediately. The agitated state of congress, however, was revealed in debate over the strike situation in both branches yesterday.

CHARGES PLACED AGAINST YOUTH IN THEFT CASE

After being charged with having stolen property in his possession, William Imber, 27, 708 South Washington Street, waived examination before Mayor William Cady, Wednesday night, and was bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bond. He was being held in jail Thursday, pending action of the jury now in session.

Imber's two brothers-in-law, Robert Thomas Garrett, 20, and Merle Garrett, 17, are in county jail charged with having stolen more than $200 worth of miscellaneous articles from automobiles, stores and private dwellings in Circleville and Ashville, also are awaiting action of the grand jury.

Some of the stolen goods have been identified, but sheriff's officers said Thursday that there were still many unidentified articles at the office in the court house and urged persons having property stolen to come after it.

Carrots, beets or other root crops should not be grown on land which has just been improved with fresh stable manure or they are likely to split.

Plants which have been heaved out of the soil during the winter should be carefully replanted, before the sun and wind dry their roots, killing them.

WORK IN MINES TO START SOON

Roosevelt's representative on the scene, expires at midnight.

Dr. Steelman persisted in his belief that operators and miners can soon reach an agreement. When they recessed shortly after midnight until 11 o'clock this morning, Steelman announced they are "conscientiously trying to come to an agreement" and that "some progress" has been made.

Spokesman for the operators, Charles O'Neill, backed this viewpoint by saying he "hoped an agreement could be reached shortly."

Lewis, however, expressed no such optimism. The bushy-browed president of the United Mine Workers, coldly asserted:

"The 400,000 miners are going back to work when their representatives are successful in negotiating a contract."

No contract, no work — that's Lewis' attitude.

TWO NAZI SHIPS FOUND SCUTTLED OFF PERU COAST

LIMA, Peru, April 3—Blazing and abandoned by their crews, the German freighters Muenchen and Hermonthis which fled from Callao Harbor Monday were discovered scuttled on the high seas during the night, the Peruvian Ministry of Marine announced today.

The floating wrecks were found by the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau. A Peruvian gunboat picked up the German crews.

The Muenchen and Hermonthis fled from Callao Harbor shortly before two other German freighters, the Leipzig and Monserrate, were scuttled by their crews after being intercepted while attempting to escape.

UNION REDUCES PICKET FORCES AT ROUGE PLANT

Company Office Officials Permitted To Enter Struck Factory

(Continued from Page One) ported—a worker who evidently hadn't heard that there was a strike and that the plant was closed tried to walk in Gate Four although dissuaded by both police and company service men. He was ready and willing to fight them and the pickets, and did. When he got into the plant it was the emergency hospital and not his job that claimed him.

All through the night Dewey with state mediators and Eli Oliver of the Office of Production Management in Washington sat alternately with UAW and Ford representatives, the latter headed by Charles Mack, Dearborn sales agent, without gaining any apparent ground for a solid peace.

The union had a five-point program of demands which included a ten cents an hour increase, abolition of the company's service department, establishment of shop stewards and reinstatement of all workers discharged because of union affiliation and against that was the company's charges the union was "Communist controlled" and engaged in terroristic acts.

The particularly ominous note in the situation was that there were men ready to try to get into the Ford plant strike or no strike and there were men determined to stop them. One group of 3,000 employees, mostly Negroes, started a back to work movement late last night but were restrained by A. F. of L. leaders.

Home Martin, one-time UAW president, was among those who urged them to wait out the day and see how the meditation efforts go before acting.

DIVISION OF AID MAN TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

William M. Vance, assistant to the chief of the Division of Aid for the Aged, Columbus, told 55 Rotarians at the Rotary Club luncheon in the American Hotel Hurricane Thursday noon that the primary purpose of the Division is to provide aid for old folk who had no means of providing for themselves. He outlined the work of the division in Ohio, listed the qualifications needed for application and explained misunderstandings which have arisen concerning the old age program.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Art Howson, Chillicothe; Floyd Barlow, Wooster; J. H. Davies, Long Beach, California, and Robert Scanland, Lancaster.

F. D. R. TO ACT WITHIN 10 DAYS

This has been done in some airplane factories, it was said.

The chief weapon, however, according to both Dies committee investigators and defense officials, is calling of a strike in an industry which supplies vital parts to many industries.

19 Plants Suffer

A strike in a plant producing ferro-vanadium slowed up activity of 19 aircraft factories using the material. The Allis-Chalmers and other strikes held up expansion of power plants needed for aluminum production.

Officials of the Tennessee Valley authority, rushing construction of new plants to produce aluminum, reported that inability to get turbines is slowing up its program. Work on five power plants in the far west also is being held up.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, it was learned, is worried over slowing up of the two-ocean navy program. A senator who sought to contact navy officials yesterday was told by Undersecretary Forrestal that all high navy officials were spending the entire day on strike problems.

Because of a 10-day recess by the house and virtual suspension of senate business for the same period, no congressional legislation was possible immediately. The agitated state of congress, however, was revealed in debate over the strike situation in both branches yesterday.

CHARGES PLACED AGAINST YOUTH IN THEFT CASE

After being charged with having stolen property in his possession, William Imler, 27, 708 South Washington Street, waived examination before Mayor William Cady, Wednesday night, and was bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bond. He was being held in jail Thursday, pending action of the jury now in session.

Imler's two brothers-in-law, Robert Thomas Garrett, 20, and Merle Garrett, 17, are in county jail charged with having stolen more than $200 worth of miscellaneous articles from automobiles, stores and private dwellings in Circleville and Ashville, also are awaiting action of the grand jury.

Some of the stolen goods have been identified, but sheriff's officers said Thursday that there were still many unidentified articles at the office in the court house and urged persons having property stolen to come after it.

Carrots, beets or other root crops should not be grown on land which has just been improved with fresh stable manure or they are likely to split.

Plants which have been heaved out of the soil during the winter should be carefully replanted, before the sun and wind dry their roots, killing them.

Roosevelt's representative on the scene, expires at midnight.

Dr. Steelman persisted in his belief that operators and miners can soon reach an agreement. When they recessed shortly after midnight until 11 o'clock this morning, Steelman announced they are "conscientiously trying to come to an agreement" and that "some progress" has been made.

Spokesman for the operators, Charles O'Neill, backed this viewpoint by saying he "hoped an agreement could be reached shortly."

Lewis, however, expressed no such optimism. The bushy-browed president of the United Mine Workers, coldly asserted:

"The 400,000 miners are going back to work when their repre-

LIMA, Peru, April 3—Blazing and abandoned by their crews, the German freighters Muenchen and Hermonthis which fled from Callao Harbor Monday were discovered scuttled on the high seas during the night, the Peruvian Ministry of Marine announced today.

The floating wrecks were found by the Peruvian cruiser Almirante Grau. A Peruvian gunboat picked up the German crews.

Bookies Expect Three Club Race In Both Leagues

Cincinnati, Brooklyn And St. Louis To Supply Fireworks In National, New York, Cleveland And Detroit In American Loop

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 3 — The first odds on the impending pennant races made their appearance along Broadway today and a glance at them will show you that the bookies, at least, believe both Major Leagues are about to stage a three-club finish.

One bookie cautioned us that the following prices are subject to change at a moment's notice. For instance, if Hank Greenberg should be drafted by Uncle Sam, the price on the Tigers would soar several points.

Here they are and let your conscience be your guide:

National League
Cincinnati	2-1
Brooklyn	4-1
St. Louis	5-1
Chicago	12-1
Pittsburgh	15-1
New York	20-1
Boston	50-1
Philadelphia	200-1

American League
New York	3-1
Cleveland	3-1
Detroit	4-1
Chicago	10-1
Boston	12-1
St. Louis	15-1
Washington	50-1
Philadelphia	100-1

You will note that the Broadway bookies, at least, haven't conceded the pennant to the Indians. We took a consensus among them and herewith are the capsule opinions of the men who let their money talk for them.

"REDS: The solid team. Great pitching and pitching still is 80 percent of baseball.

"DODGERS: Might take it all but their pitching has to prove itself.

"CARDINALS: A real threat if the youngsters come through. If not, we may be quoting 50 to 1 against them by June.

"CUBS: Still in the experimental stage and nobody knows how Novikoff will go.

"PIRATES: A great club and a corking manager in Frankie Frisch. But no pitching at all.

"GIANTS: Coming apart at the seams. They simply don't rate.

"BEES: Two or three outstanding men but not enough punch.

"PHILLIES: Ought to be in the International League and we'd lay a price against them even there.

"YANKS: If the youngsters click, they're a shoe-in. If not, they won't run one-two-three.

"INDIANS: They appear to have what it takes—on paper—but they still must show up on the ball field.

"TIGERS: Better than rated and if Uncle Sam doesn't interfere they'll be there or thereabouts all the way.

"WHITE SOX: A nice club but short of pitching.

"RED SOX: Like the Pirates, they have no pitching at all.

"BROWNS: Could surprise everybody if Fred Haney can work a miracle with some of those old cast-offs on his pitching staff.

"SENATORS: Even Bucky Harris admits they're going nowhere.

"ATHLETICS: More or less hopeless."

LOUIS AND CONN MAY BE PAIRED IN CHICAGO RING

CHICAGO, April 3—A chance that the scheduled June fight between Joe Louis and Billy Conn may be brought to Chicago today apparently rested on one important item—the size of the crowd that turns out tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium to witness Conn's 12-round bout with Gunnar Barlund, Finnish heavyweight.

Mike Jacobs came to Chicago to discuss the probability of bringing the bout to Chicago with Sheldon Clark, new chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission. During the meeting between Jacobs and Clark, the New York boxing czar said he was confident that the Conn-Louis bout would draw a bigger gate in Chicago than in New York.

Barlund and Conn wound up their training preparations today with light workouts. Barlund probably will weigh around 195 pounds tomorrow night, while Conn is expected to weigh about 182.

One Chicago betting commission today was making Conn a 15 to 1 favorite, but those odds are expected to undergo a sharp revision before any wagers are made. If he is right, Barlund can cause any fighter considerable trouble. He knocked out Buddy Baer in seven rounds and he holds a decision over Tony Musto, who fights Joe Louis next Tuesday night in St. Louis.

Authorities at Brown University in Providence, R. I., announced that Dye would report at his new position next week to assist new football coach Skip Stahley with spring football practice. Stahley revealed that Dye would probably be backfield coach of the Bruins.

FIRST LADIES DAY

CINCINNATI, April 3—General Manager Warren Giles of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds announced today that the first ladies day of the year at Crosley Field would be April 17. A pre-season ladies day will be observed April 10, when the Reds tangle with the Boston Red Sox.

Conservation Committee Of House Defeats Measure; Farmers Opposed

COLUMBUS, April 3—Hopes of Ohio hunters to have a 10-day open season on Bob White quail starting in 1943 were blasted today as the house conservation committee killed the bill by the narrowest of margins. The vote was 11 to 10.

The vote on the measure, sponsored by the league of Ohio Sportsmen, was taken immediately after the conclusion of the second public hearing on the controversial bill. The hearing attracted more spectators than any other of the more than 1,000 bills introduced in the 94th general assembly.

The vote was so close that it required the final ballot of the committee chairman, Rep. Jack Easton, (R-Lake,) to kill the measure.

Although the League was expected to seek reconsideration of the measure, there seemed little likelihood that they could obtain passage even if successful in having it reintroduced on the floor of the house. Past legislatures have always killed the measure to take the quail off the song-bird list, where it has been since 1917.

Thirteen opponents of the measure were heard at the hearing, including representatives of women's organizations, garden clubs and Audubon Societies.

Rep. Paul L. McCormick, (R-Logan) declared that he had yet to contact a farmer who was in favor of the bill. State Grange Master Walter F. Kirk, who is a member of the conservation and natural resources commission, told the committee it would be "unfortunate" if the legislature approved the measure.

RIDDLE IS STAR HOWARD'S BEST INDIANS DO WELL ALTHOUGH REDS HORSES ON WAY IN 3-1 CLUBBING LOSE TO BOSTON TO EAST COAST OF TERRY'S MEN

FORT BENNING, Ga., April 3 —Although they dropped a 3-0 tilt to the Boston Red Sox yesterday, the world champion Cincinnati Reds had something to be happy about today. Elmer Riddle, with his brother, John, receiving his slants, went eight frames against the Sox and allowed but three bingles. Riddle appears certain for one of the starting rolls for the champs this season.

Despite the stellar performance of Riddle, the Reds were helpless before the slants of Mike Ryba, 35-year-old rookie, and Emerson Dickman, fire-ball hurler. The Champs collected but five hits in the nine frames and never threatened.

The two teams square off at Montgomery, Ala., today before an army aviation school of cadets. John Vander Meer is slated to hurl for Cincinnati while Woody Rich will probably go for the Sox.

SANTA ANITA PARK, Cal., April 3—Planning an ambitious assault on the eastern turf front, Trainer Tom Smith today loaded Porter's Cap, Mioland, Chiquita Mia and two other steeds in the pretentious stable of Charles S. Howard into a luxurious horse car for a cross-country jaunt to Havre De Grace, Maryland.

The Howard hegira left aboard the Santa Fe Chief to make a flying trip to the Maryland track where Porter's Cap will be readied for his engagement in the 6th Kentucky Derby, and Mioland will be prepped for the $20,000 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico.

Porter's Cap carries with him the hopes of western turf fans in the traditional Bluegrass turf classic. The 3-year-old son of the Porter, winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby last February, is one of the standout choices for the Churchill Downs fixture.

It is Smith's intention to use mighty Mioland as a working mate for Porter's Cap during the next few weeks. If his strategy is successful, and it has been many times in the past, California may have another Kentucky Derby victor to add to the list of turf immortals.

A midwestern burglar successfully carted off a large bath tub. Even the police had to admit that he made a clean getaway.

GOLFING STARS SEEK BIG PURSE AT AUGUSTA, GA.

AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, Augusta, Ga., April 3—The top prize is $1,500, the defending champion is Texas Jimmy Demaret, par for the course is 72 and the field is made up of a select few who earned their place in the event on past performances.

Those are the vital statistics on the eighth annual Masters Golf championship which began its four day march today over the pine-clad, red clay hills of this dream course.

The favorites as the opening shots rolled away were Sam Snead, the perennial threat who can't quite make it, and Byron Nelson, the cold National Professional champion, with Ben Hogan, the current leading money-winner; Lawson Little, National Open champion; and Demaret all close behind in the free and easy wagging characteristic of all sports events down in the southland.

BAER AND NOVA AWAIT BELL FOR GARDEN TUSSELE

NEW YORK, April 3 — Maxie Baer and Lou Nova today put final touches on their training in preparation for tomorrow night's 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Baer, who scaled in at 220, wound up with a light workout at Lakewood, N. J., while Nova galloped around the bridge paths of New York's Central Park.

Betting, which saw Nova tabbed as a 7 to 5 choice, has by far exceeded that of their June, 1939, scrap when Max, then an overwhelming favorite, was stopped by Nova in the 11th round.

Baer and his pilot, Ancil Hoffman, have pooled $1,000 which they have placed at 3 to 1 that Max registers a knockout. Max stopped Tony Galento and Pat Comiskey in his last two starts.

BAMBINO ASKED TO PLAY COBB FOR BRITISH FUND

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3—Word was waited from Babe Ruth today as to whether the former king of swat is willing to meet Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach" of baseball, in a special golf match for the benefit of the British Red Cross.

The proposed match was announced by Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager for the PGA. Cobb already has agreed to the match, and an invitation was sent to Ruth in New York. Both Cobb and Ruth are southpaw golfers and shoot in the middle 70's.

TIPPY DYE GOES TO BIG EASTERN SCHOOL AS COACH

COLUMBUS, April 3—William Henry "Tippy" Dye, one of the greatest athletes in the history of Ohio State University athletics and a native of Pomeroy, today had been named head basketball and assistant football coach at Brown University.

The sensational 150-pound Dye was a nine-letterman at Ohio State, playing three seasons of football, basketball and baseball. Although small in stature, Dye was an all-Big Ten basketball selection in both 1936 and 1937. In football, he received honorable mention on many all-America teams at quarterback and was considered a "better than average" shortstop on the baseball field.

Following his graduation from Ohio State in 1937, Dye spent a year playing football with the Cincinnati Bengals, then accepted a coaching job at Grandview Heights high school. During his three year stay at Grandview, Dye's teams compiled splendid records and he was regarded as one of the middle-west's most promising young coaches.

Authorities at Brown University in Providence, R. I., announced that Dye would report at his new position next week to assist new football coach Skip Stahley with spring football practice. Stahley revealed that Dye would probably be backfield coach of the Bruins.

SELMA, Ala., April 3—The Cleveland Indians may become another team much like the Cincinnati Reds, it appeared today, after another Tribe pitcher came through with a sparkling performance and his mates connected at the timely moment with base knocks.

For the fourth time in five games, the Indians' pitching proved too potent for the opposition and the New York Giants went down by a 3-1 count. Al Smith pitched effectively for six innings, allowing but five hits while Ken Jungles took up where he left off and subdued the New Yorkers for the remainder of the distance without a bingle.

Roy Weatherly and Lou Boudreau collected a couple of hits apiece for the Indians while Gee Walker's home run far over the 350-foot left field fence opened the scoring in the second.

LYLOYD OFF FORM
ST. PAUL, April 3—Movie Comedian Harold Lloyd, after a poor start with his 508 total in the team event, comes back to the alleys at the American Bowling Congress late today for an attempted comeback in the singles and doubles. Rolling in his first A. B. C. Lloyd, a 195-average kegger, came up with four errors and two splits in his five-man series with the Los Angeles No. 1 team, as the quintet totalled 2,572, far off the pace.

BAER AND NOVA AWAIT BELL FOR GARDEN TUSSLE

NEW YORK, April 3 — Maxie Baer and Lou Nova today put final touches on their training in preparation for tomorrow night's 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Baer, who scaled in at 220, wound up with a light workout at Lakewood, N. J., while Nova galloped around the bridge paths of New York's Central Park.

Betting, which saw Nova tabbed as a 7 to 5 choice, has by far exceeded that of their June, 1939, scrap when Max, then an overwhelming favorite, was stopped by Nova in the 11th round.

Baer and his pilot, Ancil Hoffman, have pooled $1,000 which they have placed at 3 to 1 that Max registers a knockout. Max stopped Tony Galento and Pat Comiskey in his last two starts.

BAMBINO ASKED TO PLAY COBB FOR BRITISH FUND

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3—Word was waited from Babe Ruth today as to whether the former king of swat is willing to meet Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach" of baseball, in a special golf match for the benefit of the British Red Cross.

The proposed match was announced by Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager for the PGA. Cobb already has agreed to the match, and an invitation was sent to Ruth in New York. Both Cobb and Ruth are southpaw golfers and shoot in the middle 70's.

A dimple is caused by a slight depression or dent in the surface of the human body, caused by the adherence of the skin to the deeper tissues, most frequently on the cheek or chin.

GOLFING STARS SEEK BIG PURSE AT AUGUSTA, GA.

AUGUSTA NATIONAL GOLF CLUB, Augusta, Ga., April 3—The top prize is $1,500, the defending champion is Texas Jimmy Demaret, par for the course is 72 and the field is made up of a select few who earned their place in the event on past performances.

Those are the vital statistics on the eighth annual Masters Golf championship which began its four day march today over the pine-clad, red clay hills of this dream course.

The favorites as the opening shots rolled away were Sam Snead, the perennial threat who can't quite make it, and Byron Nelson, the cold National Professional champion, with Ben Hogan, the current leading money-winner; Lawson Little, National Open champion; and Demaret all close behind in the free and easy wagging characteristic of all sports events down in the southland.

The scye is the armhole or opening in a garment for the attachment of the sleeve.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Seranton of Scranton, Pa., veteran National Committeewoman.

"Money was my problem," complained Kelland. "I could have swung Arizona to Willkie if I had $10,000 more to spend. But I couldn't get it, though I appealed many times to party leaders in other states."

"Well, we had plenty of money in Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Seranton, "and I am sure we would have been only too willing to send you some if we had known of your predicament. We helped other states. But, Mr. Kelland, I'm afraid I can't agree with you about Arizona."

Then, fixing the serial-writer with a critical eye, she added: "More than money was needed there."

SCATTERING DEFENSE FACTORIES

Wary Westerners who have been dragging their maps around to Army brass-hats and National Defense chiefs for months, trying to get new factories located west of the Mississippi, view the new Plant Site Board with a wary eye. They're wondering if the new board really will do something about distributing defense industries, or whether it's just fancy piece of window-dressing.

COUNCIL ENDS PARALLEL PARKING, NULLIFIES ACTION

AUTO PROBLEM PUT IN HANDS OF COMMITTEE

Petition Carrying Names Of 234 Persons Placed Before Officials

CHANGES ARE DEMANDED

Doubleparking Is Blamed For Failure Of System Used At Present

City Council, Wednesday night, tossed its parallel parking problem into the laps of its safety committee and the safety director after it had attempted, through discussion, to iron out the faults of the present system of parking on Main and Court Streets.

Council's action to refer the matter to the safety committee followed a move earlier in the evening to set up a 30-degree angle parking system in the downtown section. By a vote of six to one the officials passed a resolution to instruct City Solicitor Joe W. Adkins to draw up an ordinance suspending parallel parking and setting up 30-degree two-hour parking on both Main and Court. Their resolution provided for no double parking and no exemptions for physicians' or delivery cars. The system was to be set up on Court Street from Mound to High and on Main Street from Scioto to Pickaway.

Action Nullified

Discussion continued after the vote was taken and on the suggestion of Councilman Clarence Helvering, council voted the whole subject into the safety committee, nullifying its previous action.

The general expression of a majority of the council was that the present system used on Main and Court Street was unsatisfactory and should be changed. Principal differences concern the right of motorists to double park, and officials have blamed violation of the double parking privilege as one of the main reasons the present system has proven unsatisfactory.

Petition Presented

Discussion arose during Wednesday night's meeting after a petition signed by 234 Circleville residents, including business men and housewives, asking that parallel parking on Main Street be abandoned and the old system of head-in parking be readopted, was read.

The safety committee will investigate the parking problem and report back at the next council meeting. The committee includes J. H. Helwagen, J. D. Mason and Clarence Helvering.

BANDITS INVADE HOME OF COLUMBUSITE; $230 TAKEN

COLUMBUS, April 3—City and county authorities today sought a trio of bandits, one of them armed with a sub-machine gun, who invaded the suburban mansion of Fred A. Wirtham, owner of the Columbus Buggy Parts Co., tied him and his hired man to kitchen chairs, committed numerous acts of vandalism in ransacking the house, and escaped with $230 and a $65 shotgun.

The bandits, who seemed to know their victim, cut the phone wires to the residence, outside the city limits and in a secluded, wooded section. Wirtham and the hired man, Eber Pendleton, were alone in the house at the time. It was more than an hour before Wirtham escaped from his bonds and called the sheriff's office. City police were cooperating at the request of county authorities.

37th Division Parades As Army Day Feature

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., April 3 — With bands playing, regimental colors proudly flying, and the caissons rolling along, well over 18,500 Ohio soldiers will parade for Mississippians when the 37th Division stages a full strength parade, complete with armament, equipment and motor vehicles, as one of the feature attractions at Camp Shelby on Army Day, April 7.

It is expected that many distinguished guests, including the Governor of Mississippi, Paul B. Johnson and Senators Bilbo and Harrison will be in the reviewing stand to watch with Major-General Robert S. Beightler, Commanding General of the 37th, as the Ohio boys swing by.

General Robert H. Tyndall, Camp Commander, has invited the public to visit Camp Shelby on Army Day and see how the army lives and the progress that is being made in training. A number of entertaining and instructive demonstrations have been planned for the benefit of the visiting civilians, who will be permitted for the first time on the firing ranges to witness an exhibition of pistol, rifle, machine gun and artillery fire. The various specialized regiments, such as the medical, quartermaster and engineers, will all put on exhibitions and explain the tasks that are expected of them in the field and how they operate under combat conditions.

Thousands of civilians are expected and many of the schools have declared Army Day a holiday to permit school children to see the show.

PARK TRUSTEES GET AUTHORITY

Council Approves Use Of Funds By Board; Seven Persons Serve

Circleville's Park Trustees were given authority to expend funds and to adopt measures regulating the operation and maintenance of the Ted Lewis Recreation Center Wednesday night in an ordinance passed by City Council.

The ordinance, passed after the three-reading rule had been suspended, provides that the Park Board consist of seven resident electors of Circleville who shall be appointed by the mayor. The board members have the right to apply, invest and control funds and appropriations for park purposes. They shall serve without compensation and must give bond for $2,500.

The money secured for park purposes will be placed in a special "park fund" and disbursed by the city treasurer only on warrant of the auditor drawn in accordance with the order of the board. The trustees are granted the power to make contracts for the improvement of the grounds, the erection of bridges and structures and may adopt rules for the protection, care and government of the playground and such rules when approved by Council shall be enforced as ordinances.

The trustees are not to incur any liability for the park beyond the amount of the funds levied for park purposes. They may employ superintendents and other employees and fix their salaries and on the first Monday of January each year they will make a written report to Council carrying a detailed statement of the money necessary for maintaining the park for the ensuing year.

BERGER LISTS $1,431 COLLECTED IN MARCH

March collections for Berger Hospital totaled $1,431.71, a report submitted to councilmen at their meeting Wednesday night revealed.

Fines, bonds and fees received by the police department during March amounted to $386.50 according to Mayor William Cady's report.

OHIO LANDING FIELDS TO BE IMPROVED; CASH SET UP

WASHINGTON, April 3—Civil aeronautics authorities have informed the House appropriations sub-committee that they intend to enlarge and improve existing intermediate landing fields at key points on the federal airways system, including several in Ohio.

The largest project called for expenditure of $73,500 for construction of hard-surfaced runways at the Vickery, O., (Sandusky County) field.

Additional fields to be improved, for which no specific sums were set forth, called for conditioning and realigning boundary lighting at Hayesville, Archbold and Cherry Fork.

AUTO PROBLEM PUT IN HANDS OF COMMITTEE

Petition Carrying Names Of 234 Persons Placed Before Officials

CHANGES ARE DEMANDED

Doubleparking Is Blamed For Failure Of System Used At Present

City Council, Wednesday night, tossed its parallel parking problem into the laps of its safety committee and the safety director after it had attempted, through discussion, to iron out the faults of the present system of parking on Main and Court Streets.

Council's action to refer the matter to the safety committee followed a move earlier in the evening to set up a 30-degree angle parking system in the downtown section. By a vote of six to one the officials passed a resolution to instruct City Solicitor Joe W. Adkins to draw up an ordinance suspending parallel parking and setting up 30-degree two-hour parking on both Main and Court. Their resolution provided for no double parking and no exemptions for physicians' or delivery cars. The system was to be set up on Court Street from Mound to High and on Main Street from Scioto to Pickaway.

Action Nullified

Discussion continued after the vote was taken and on the suggestion of Councilman Clarence Helvering, council voted the whole subject into the safety committee, nullifying its previous action.

The general expression of a majority of the council was that the present system used on Main and Court Street was unsatisfactory and should be changed. Principal differences concern the right of motorists to double park, and officials have blamed violation of the double parking privilege as one of the main reasons the present system has proven unsatisfactory.

Petition Presented

Discussion arose during Wednesday night's meeting after a petition signed by 234 Circleville residents, including business men and housewives, asking that parallel parking on Main Street be abandoned and the old system of head-in parking be readopted, was read.

The safety committee will investigate the parking problem and report back at the next council meeting. The committee includes J. H. Helwagen, J. D. Mason and Clarence Helvering.

BANDITS INVADE HOME OF COLUMBUSITE; $230 TAKEN

COLUMBUS, April 3.—City and county authorities today sought a trio of bandits, one of them armed with a sub-machine gun, who invaded the suburban mansion of Fred A. Wirtham, owner of the Columbus Buggy Parts Co., tied him and his hired man to kitchen chairs, committed numerous acts of vandalism in ransacking the house, and escaped with $230 and a $65 shotgun.

The bandits, who seemed to know their victim, cut the phone wires to the residence, outside the city limits and in a secluded, wooded section. Wirtham and the hired man, Eber Pendleton, were alone in the house at the time. It was more than an hour before Wirtham escaped from his bonds and called the sheriff's office. City police were cooperating at the request of county authorities.

37th Division Parades As Army Day Feature

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., April 3 — With bands playing, regimental colors proudly flying, and the caissons rolling along, well over 18,500 Ohio soldiers will parade for Mississippians when the 37th Division stages a full strength parade, complete with armament, equipment and motor vehicles, as one of the feature attractions at Camp Shelby on Army Day, April 7.

It is expected that many distinguished guests, including the Governor of Mississippi, Paul B. Johnson and Senators Bilbo and Harrison will be in the reviewing stand to watch with Major-General Robert S. Beightler, Commanding General of the 37th, as the Ohio boys swing by.

General Robert H. Tyndall, Camp Commander, has invited the public to visit Camp Shelby on Army Day and see how the army lives and the progress that is being made in training. A number of entertaining and instructive demonstrations have been planned for the benefit of the visiting civilians, who will be permitted for the first time on the firing ranges to witness an exhibition of pistol, rifle, machine gun and artillery fire. The various specialized regiments, such as the medical, quartermaster and engineers, will all put on exhibitions and explain the tasks that are expected of them in the field and how they operate under combat conditions.

Thousands of civilians are expected and many of the schools have declared Army Day a holiday to permit school children to see the show.
